AVENTURA EXECUTES DISTRIBUTION AGREEMENT WITH ANIXTER

Hauppauge, New York, February 1, 2009—Aventura Technologies, Inc., the industry leader in advanced digital video recording technology announced today it has entered into a distribution agreement with Anixter.

Frances Cabasso, Aventura CEO said, “Aventura Technologies has always been known as the forward-thinking innovator in the CCTV industry. Aventura pioneered many industry firsts among them the H.264 platform for the surveillance industry more than 6 years ago. The issue has always been CCTV has become a “technology” product, no longer just a black box with datacom smarts required for channel sales. Anixter recognized the need years ago and quickly have become the leader in CCTV not just in the datacom sector but in our opinion the overall security industry.

Ms. Cabasso further stated, “The alliance with Anixter provides Aventura with the framework and infrastructure to properly market and support the Aventura solutions. With more than 100,000 customers in 52 countries you could not ask for a better sales partner than Anixter. Part of the Anixter mantra is more than a distributor they are a business partner. The message to their customer base is synonymous with Aventura’s which is we are a solution provider.”
