AVENTURA LAUNCHES PoE+ H.264 IP CAMERA SYSTEM

Hauppauge, New York, October 2, 2008—Aventura Technologies, Inc., the industry leader in advanced digital video recording technology now offers a line of IP cameras compliant with the evolving IEEE802.3at standard and providing power levels up to 120 watts. Power levels above 25 Watts will use “Aventura PoE+.” For the first time CCTV companies can support high power IP devices. The new product offering from the Aventura laboratories will feature a full complement of domes, boxes and infrared models.

Frances Cabasso, Aventura CEO said, “Aventura Technologies is taking the I.T. PoE standard to a new practical level for the CCTV world utilizing a “hardware-intelligent” extension of the PoE standard. Aventura supports outdoor IP PTZ cameras, dome and camera/encoder/storage combinations incorporating internal heaters and long range IR illumination powered over a single Cat 5e or Cat6 cable.
